

Gwendolyn Koldofsky Collection Acknowledgements

It is with sincere gratitude that the authors acknowledge the contributions of all those listed below. Their generous participation allowed for the picture of Koldofsky we have been able to reconstruct in this publication to be much more richly multidimensional than it would otherwise have been. Thank you for collaborating with us to preserve her history and legacy.

Our Heartfelt Thanks:

To Russell Miller and Arlene Shrut, who planted the seed for this project in 2020 as part of CollabFest, and to Todd Graber for generously sharing the materials Russell had curated.

To Jean Barr, for the generous sharing of her memories and precious source material.

To Victoria Kirsch, for her invaluable contributions to this project, in particular sharing her deep knowledge of Koldofsky, USC and Music Academy, and her generosity of time and spirit.

To Alan Smith, whose studio library - the same USC studio formerly occupied by Mme. K. - housed the 1999 USC Memorial Concert audio recording and the 1951 recital recording with Lotte Lehmann. These are posthumous gifts from Smith, who revered and loved Koldofsky.

To Abe Hunter and The Lied Society for the inspirational programming provided during the pandemic, and for curating so many valuable roundtable conversations with leaders in the field.

To the following libraries and archivists who provided us with materials and information:

Garly Hickling, Lotte Lehmann League

David Huff, Ph.D. Sound Preservationist, Music Library, University of North Texas

Andrew Justice, University of Southern California Music Library

David Seubert and staff, University of California, Santa Barbara Library, Special Collections

Paul Hickling, Banff

Brendon Tompkins, Music Academy of the West

Barbara Hirsch, Opus One

Our particular thanks to all those who sat for interviews, including:

Dane Williams. Gwendolyn Koldofsky's nephew, and pianists who studied or worked with her closely:

Timothy Bach

Jean Barr

Judith Bible

Bill Billingham

Lisa Edwards

Anne Epperson

Grant Gershon

Steven Harlos

Rosemary Hyler

Martin Katz

John Keene

Victoria Kirsch

Mona Lands

Daniel Lockert

Brent McMunn

Karl Paulnack Deon Nielsen Price Arlene Shrut
Neil Stannard Mark Trawka Philip Young

Her colleagues, Margo Garrett and Armen Guzelimian, and singers and associates who likewise donated their time and resources to this project:

Gail Dubinbaum Ruth Golden Juliana Gondek
Karen Holvik Marilyn Horne Angele Houle
Debora Huffmann Jacalyn Kreitzer Erich Parce
Michelle Patzakis Michael Sells

We dedicate this collection to the memory of those students of Mme. K. who have passed on, particularly Russell Miller, Paula Fan, and Carolyn Hague.